Your result for The Secret Gender Test ...

Female gender identity/androgynous

0% Masculine and 43% Feminine!

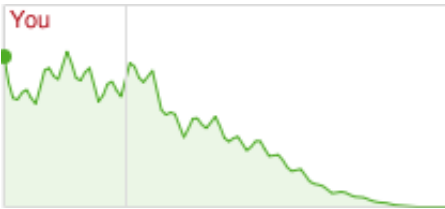

If you got this result then this means that your processes are mostly (around half) like a female, or standard female; however half of your responses were either male, or androgyn. This means that while your mostly feminine, you have the toggle for male/female on a lot of things. These things range from sexuality, to ability. Likelihood is that you can equally do the job of any male, yet retain your femininity. There is also a higher likelihood that you have a job traditional to males... You have the same senses as other women for self-preservation, but you likely also have the skills to be a good hunter as well..

Meaning that in addition to having good spatial presense with in the vacinity of your body, you also have the ability to focus or hone on a single target. Most women lack this focus ability, and as a result your female co-workers likely view you as masculine, or less feminine. They may also have less nice things to say about you if you have a more domineering personality. Either way, being in this category makes you open to dating or seeing pretty much any other gender type. However, dating a super-male, or super-female if your attracted to women, is still "caveat emptor" situation. You have to be ready to deal with over the top masculinity, or femininity to your more balance female repose.

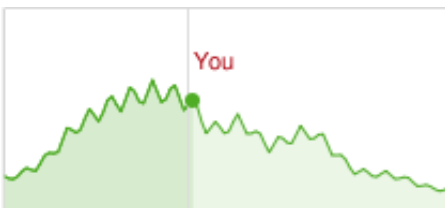

However, if this result is correct, then the brain sex of female is made from this analysis. Gender traits aren't always so cut and clean, and some people aren't aware of learned and instincutal behaviors as they are intermingled in this life. If you were born female, your a woman like any other, and if you were born a male, your either subtly feminine/androgyn (behaviorally) or your a transwoman. If you are a transwoman, your are androgyn, and are either presenting female-like or exist in a gender neutral presentation. You may also be considered gender-queer. There is also a very high likelihood you will find a balance without surgery or even transition. Either way, these aspects if I have extrapolated them appropriately from studies of human behavior means that sex aside you are a woman. There is nothing wrong with that, as our brains have been structured in the manner they are for our survival. Be proud of who you are, because you should be. Remember though that gender identity is your true sexual identity, not your actual physical sex.

Your Analysis (Vertical line = Average)

You scored 0% on Masculine, higher than 3% of your peers.

You scored 43% on Feminine, higher than 53% of your peers.
