The College

A member of the State University of New York (SUNY) system, Tompkins Cortland Community College is located in Dryden, N.Y., in the heart of the Finger Lakes region. TC3's 220-acre campus features a unique two-story building housing the pool, computer and biology labs, child care center, a new learning commons, a new student center, and classrooms. The campus is home to the best athletics facilities of any community college in our region. Everything at the College was new in 2007: a 1,500-seat arena, a lighted artificial-turf stadium, a beautiful on-campus baseball field, a high-quality indoor field house, and a state-of-the-art fitness center for all of our students.
