Dear Bonzeanne Rose Blayk:

We are sending this letter to let you know that we received your oral complaint on 11/07/2018. You told us that you are dissatisfied with the care that you received in September of 2018 from the Cayuga Medical Center's Behavioral Health Services Division. You advised that you were admitted to the hospital 09/19/2018 and stayed for one month before being transferred to Behavioral Health Services. You stated that you have a serious injury in your left shoulder which you were told was only a dislocated shoulder but you are now being referred for an MRI regarding. You advised that the psychiatric department was unreasonable and expecting you to be able to rise up to perfect health but you state your physical health was not good enough for this. You advised that you received injections of Invega and Sustenna which you state are now causing you to suffer side effects. You advised you were offended by the inpatient care because you were kept on an EKG and prescribed blood pressure medicine when you do not have high blood pressure. Lastly you stated that you did not take medications that were prescribed because you did not feel they were necessary for recovery. We are sending this letter to acknowledge your complaint and to let you know our decision on your complaint.

We also want you to know that we have addressed your concerns.

Your complaint has been reviewed by:

Date of Visit: August 26, 2019 Account #: 166833
Patient Name: Bonzeanne Blayk DOB: 05/01/1956 Gender: female Age: 63 years
Primary Care Physician: Robert Breiman, MD

Reason for Visit: Left Shoulder

HPI: The patient is a 63-year-old transsexual woman, right hand dominant, who is now almost 1 year status post September 19, 2018, left shoulder dislocation with massive rotator cuff tendon tear, presenting for follow up.

As a reminder, the patient had some type of psychotic break at the time of his injury. There was some scuffling with the police. The patient required relocation in the operating room by a colleague of mine. The patient has had x-rays and MRI consistent with a massive rotator cuff tendon tear that did not appear to be repairable based on MRI imaging. NOT psychotic, see Bags Ambulance Report ORIENTED 3X.

I spoke with the patient at her February clinic visit about superior capsular repair, although now that I study her imaging more I think that has a lesser probability of working and she would be more of a candidate for a reverse shoulder arthroplasty should she ever choose surgery. The patient was uninterested in surgery in February. I gave the patient a new physical therapy prescription at her February clinic visit.

The patient states that her function has improved. The patient can drive a car. She can haul trash to the dump. The patient graduated from physical therapy, which she found to be helpful.

No numbness or tingling. No other joint pain.

PHYSICAL EXAM: GENERAL: No acute distress, alert and oriented, appropriate mood and affect. Appropriate dress. The patient has a strong smell of body odor. Well coordinated bilateral upper and lower extremities. Nonantalgic gait. "Huh."

LEFT UPPER EXTREMITY: Left shoulder exam shows active elevation of 140 degrees of forward flexion and 95 degrees of abduction. The patient's passive range of motion is over 140 degrees of forward flexion, 90 degrees of external and internal rotation. Rotator cuff stress testing reveals pain and weakness with supraspinatus stress testing. There is weakness of the infraspinatus with an external rotation lag to 0 degrees with the arm at the side. Neurovascularly intact distally.

STUDIES: X-ray views of the left shoulder show located left shoulder glenohumeral joint with elevated humeral head and narrowed acromiohumeral distance.

ASSESSMENT: As above.

PLAN:

1. The patient is happy with her progress.
2. As stated above, I think the only surgery that the patient would be a candidate for would be a reverse shoulder arthroplasty. Given the patient's history of psychosis, I would not rush to perform any type of arthroplasty in her because of concerns about future instability events or fracture with future possible falls.

BULLSHIT

However, the patient is doing well as of now.
3. The patient will follow up as needed in clinic with me.
